The first annual "Imagine a Cure Music and Food" festival kicked off at Shriner park in Macon.

This event celebrates the lives of children that have cancer and honors those who have lost their lives to the illness. Many vendors, bands and locals showed up to help support the cause. This event will go towards finding a cure for cancer.

"We're raising money for brain cancer research and what this is doing; we're funding treatment at st. Judes right now and inside children's hospital," says Brooke Desserich.
